

*Ask yourself the following question when securing
Directors & Officers coverage for your Organization:*

Should we Consider
Purchasing an International
Liability
Policy?

Many organizations travel internationally in order to conduct business, have foreign sales or even foreign operations and employees. If that is the case with your organization, domestic coverage may not be sufficient. Rockwood is sensitive to this change in how private companies and not for profit organizations operate and now offers competitive and comprehensive insurance options for International Liability insurance.

Identify whether your business has international liability exposures now.

- Travel overseas
- Travel individually or in small groups of less than six people per flight
- Travel up to 30 days in a single trip
- Have annual foreign sales less than $10 million
- Have had no foreign losses within the past five (5) years

If your company has international exposures, you need to ask whether you have the funds available to cover the following expenses?

- General Liability exposures overseas
- Natural disaster evacuation costs
- Personal property/ personal property in transit damages overseas
- Auto damages while overseas

If you don't have the funds, you should invest in insurance coverage to protect your business from financial devastation.

Please find a quick quote form on the back of this sheet, complete it and provide it to your broker/ underwriter in order to receive a no-obligation quote for your organization.
